C., in the various Arizona and Western Texas districts, the tendency is to encourage the employment of Negro labor giving as a reason that only the shiftless migratory class of Negro labor is attracted and that after the season is over he drifts to the cities and becomes a parasite on the economic conditions prevailing in the large centers where there is no demand for this class of labor.

The Black Man's Opportunity

The Negro himself could overcome this aversion to his employment if a better class could be attracted.

A progressive type of producing labor which acquire land, establish homes, become citizens and add to the productive value of the community.

The economic condition of the colored worker is daily growing more difficult as organized movements by white associations bring pressure to bear in favoring the white worker even to the loss of former industrial positions considered as of great merit which in California, Oregon, Washington, Arizona and Western Texas present the slenderest opportunity for the Negro.

Under the building trades organization, which is not yet well organized, building up and with its progress any large industry the trade in Southern California and Arizona, located where the open shop predominates, the colored artisan is employed to some degree which is more efficient than his white co-worker, however the demand is for the skilled colored artisan with sufficient capital, experience and executive ability to handle his own contracts.

It is in the agricultural sections of the South West region comprising Southwest Texas, Arizona and California a region of varied crops with cotton predominating that the Negro has the opportunity to surpass the Japanese as the dominate factor in the agricultural and industrial life of this section.

To Employ Mexican Contract Labor

It is this shiftless migratory type of Mexican that is now predominant in the labor situation of these states.

So acute has become the situation that relief has been sought through the introduction of the Vincent Bill into the last session of the California Congress proposing to make contract with Mexico possible.

At present the Southwest is absolutely dependent upon Mexican labor.

They are the Southwest only reliance both in the industries and on the farm.

The Mexican laborer is a migratory workman. He lives along the line of least resistance. He cannot be classed as an immigrant or of the tenant class like the Japanese who rose rapidly from the status of labor to tenants. He comes to America to sell his labor that he may return to his own country and be independent. He is not acquisitive has no idea or time, no sense of value. Consequently the Southwest wants only his labor; to bring him here, use him, and return him home.

MEXICAN OR NEGRO LABOR IS SOUTHWEST VITAL QUESTION

ECONOMIC COMPETITION FOR CONTROL OF SOUTHWEST'S LABOR SUPPLY AN ACUTE PROBLEM

(By Geo. Perry, Staff Correspondent, Pacific News Bureau)

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (Special) — The real economic competition for the control of the agricultural and industrial situation in the South-west territory comprising Western Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Baja (Lower California) Mexico and California has again become an acute problem in this section, having shifted since the exclusion of the orientals from the labor situation, to the various other types of available labor.

A Serious Problem

With the appearance of the orientals from agriculture the dominant question is "Who is to do the manual labor?" The European white worker is leaving the country faster than he is arriving; 44,750 having departed in 1925 to 27,908 arrivals. Of those who remain only a small number get west of the Rockies. Filipinos, Porto Ricans and East Indians used in small numbers can hardly be considered in any quantity. There remain but two groups, the Mexicans and the Negroes.

Use Of Black Labor Discouraged

The rapid development of cotton acreage in the Southwest States has created a great shortage during the seasons of experience cotton workers. In the Rio Grande Valley of Texas around Harlingen with a total cotton production in excess of 100,000 bales a shortage of 5,000 cotton pickers existed in July last year. In the Yuma Valley district of Arizona below Needles with 20,000 acres in cotton a call was sent in for 2,000 cotton pickers. In the Lower California with 115,000 acres and the Imperial Valley district of California with 100,000 acres a shortage exists. In the San Joaquin Valley district of California there is the same town of Allensworth with 10,000 cotton pickers employed at $1.00 per day last year more pickers were needed.

While quite a number of Black Americans are used around Allensworth in the San Joaquin district around Calexico and El Centro in the Imperial Valley district around El Centro in the Palo Verde Valley district and in the various Arizona and Western Texas districts, the tendency is to discourage the employment of Negro labor giving as a reason that only the shiftless migratory class of Negro labor is attracted and that after the season is over he drifts to the cities and becomes a parasite on the economic conditions prevailing in the large centers where there is no demand for this class of labor.

AMERICAN MUGWUMP HOLD SESSION

The most important page in the book of American history is the date of December 1918, when the United States Senate, after long and patient representation by the United States delegation to the Conference of the League of Nations, voted to ratify the League of Nations Treaty.

A most unusual program was readied for the meeting of the American Mugwump Association which was held yesterday in the Hotel Indiana. The program included a speech by Dr. G. C. Cleverton, the President of the Indiana
Elks Association.

Dr. Cleverton, in his address, urged the members of the Mugwump Association to work for the ratification of the League of Nations Treaty.

He said: "We must work for the ratification of the League of Nations Treaty
as soon as possible."

The meeting was opened with a short service by Rev. Dr. J. E. Johnson.

After the service, Dr. Cleverton spoke on the subject of the League of Nations Treaty.

He said: "The League of Nations Treaty is the most important document ever written by man."

He said: "It is the
